Assistant City Manager Fred Murry introduced the landlord permit issue and Chris Cooper, Code Enforcement Manager, updated the Committee as to what the City Commission had decided at its last meeting. Administrative Services Director, Becky Rountree, presented a snapshot of City revenues (including Landlord fees) and expenditures (including the Codes Enforcement budget), and stated that general accounting principles prescribe that revenue should not be tied to specific expenditures. The Community Development Committee recommended that the City Manager's budget for FY 2017 will show a decrease in the Landlord Permit fee, but the fee will stay the same as budgeted for FY 2016.

The Committee recommended that staff bring to the City Commission a presentation recommending a multiple-unit discount of 50% to the permit fee, which would be effective in FY16. The main permit fee adjustment will then happen in the FY17 budget.

The Committee further asked that staff come back to the next Committee meeting with more data to develop a better definition of "family," a recommendation for a revised exemption for owner occupied homes, and information to help better understand the issues around the number of bedrooms in a dwelling related to the single-family occupancy limit. Commissioner Wells also asked that staff come up with a higher permit fee option for units that have a maximum number of point violations.

RECOMMENDATION The Community Development Committee receive a presentation from staff and provide direction.
