VANCOUVER, B.C. (NOVEMBER 21, 2013)
BY SETH FINEBERG

ACL has released upgrades to its cloud-based risk management, audit management, and compliance offering ACL GRC and its flagship data analytics software ACL Analytics.

The new release of ACL GRC enables a wider set of stakeholders to harvest audit and other GRC efforts for better decision making and risk management by enhancing visibility into those activities.

As part of the enhancements to ACL GRC, users can access a full-function business intelligence module, the ACL GRC Reports Manager, which provides complete reporting, dashboarding, and metrics for executives, audit committees, and other stakeholders. A new Action Tracker tool also provides a complete view of all the actions and activities required from each team member within all projects underway across the organization.

Additional enhancements include a new version of the ACL GRC mobile application, ACL GRC for iOS and rich text editors that enable more formatting to be performed directly within ACL GRC;

The latest version of ACL Analytics offers new analytic reporting tools, including data import and export enhancements; a Microsoft Excel import tool; and new script debugging tools.

"Our vision is to create a world where auditors and other GRC professionals are organizations' most sought-after people, and our role is to relentlessly enhance our solution with that goal in mind," said Dan Zitting, vice president of product management and design at ACL. "These new changes embody ACL's dedication to continually reinvent each category that we work in and to provide the most useful, simple, and modern technology anywhere to the grossly underserved markets of audit, compliance, and risk management."
