SUBJECT: Ordinance No. 0-99-31

An ordinance of the City of Gainesville, Florida, relating to the General Employees Pension Plan, amending Section 2-523(c)(2) of the Code of Ordinances relating to members of the plan; creating Section 2-523(i) of the Code of Ordinances providing for limited participant re-entry or transfer of vested accrued benefit; amending Section 2-526(a)(3) of the Code of Ordinances to provide an optional form of benefit; providing a severability clause; providing a repealing clause; and providing an immediate effective date.

Recommendation: The City Commission adopt the proposed ordinance.

Late last year, the City Commission authorized the preparation and advertisement of the attached ordinance. The City Manager's communication to employees distributed in the last City Highlights (copy attached) discusses the salient points of the proposed ordinance. An actuarial impact statement concerning the effect of the proposed ordinance on the pension plan will be presented by management prior to adoption on second reading.

Section 1 conforms plan language to current practice regarding allowing high level employees the option of entering the General Employees Pension Plan or selecting participation in the Defined Contribution Plan.

Section 2 of the ordinance allows limited participants, who are not currently eligible members of the General Employees Pension Plan, the opportunity to re-enter the plan as eligible members or to transfer the value of their vested accrued benefit to the 401 Defined Contribution Plan. A limited participant who elects to re-enter the General Employees Pension Plan will also have the option of "purchasing" all of their years of service as an ineligible member upon the payment of the projected actuarial present value of the benefits associated with such additional years of service.

Section 3 allows an employee who terminates with a vested benefit to receive a lump sum cash equivalent of that benefit upon termination, if the benefit has an actuarial present value of less than $5,000, rather than having to wait until attaining age 65 to apply for a termination benefit.

A Letter from the City Manager
Concerning Limited Participants Re-entry
Into the General Employees' Pension Plan

Dear City Employees:

The City Commission recently authorized the City Attorney to draft an ordinance related to certain "limited participants" re-entry into the General Employees' Pension Plan. Limited participants are those employees who at one point participated in the General Plan but elected to begin participation in another plan at some point in the past. This authorization represented a major step in a process that was requested by the limited participants many years ago. Since there may have been some misunderstanding and/or misinformation about exactly what changes are being proposed, I wanted to take this opportunity to outline my recommendations and address some of the concerns that have been voiced regarding this proposal.

I would like to begin with a review of the four (4) components of my recommendation which are to be included in the proposed ordinance revision:

1. Re-entry into the General Plan - This provision would allow limited participants to re-enter the General Plan. Individuals electing this option would once again earn eligible service in the General Plan in lieu of receiving City contributions into a defined contribution or deferred compensation plan. From the effective date of their election these individuals would resume accruing credited service in the General Plan which would factor into the calculation of their monthly benefit at the time of their retirement. What merely electing this option will not do for these employees is purchase non-plan service in the employ of the City where the individual was not a member of the General Plan. As an example, let's look at an individual who had nine years of prior service as a member of the General Plan when that employee elected to transfer to another plan and, to date, has seven years of service under the other plan for a total of sixteen years of service with the City. If this individual were to elect this re-entry option and work five more years with the City, this employee would have a total of twenty-one years of service with the City. The employee's General Plan benefit, however, would be based on fourteen years of service; the initial nine years and the five earned after re-entry into the plan. This individual would not be receiving a benefit from the General Plan for the years in which he/she was not a General Plan member but would receive a separate benefit resulting from participation in the other plan. It is important to note that this proposal is providing an option to limited participants that is no different from that already provided to individuals who leave the employ of the City and then return and rejoin the General Plan upon their rehire.
2. Purchase of Non-plan Service - This provision would allow those limited participants who have elected to re-enter the Plan under revision one the further option to purchase the above-mentioned service in the employ of the City, but not as a member of the Plan. These non-plan service years would be purchased at their actuarial present value; therefore, any exercise of this option would result in no net fiscal impact to the Plan. The full cost of the purchase would be paid by the limited participant.
3. Cash out - This option is open to limited participants who elect not to re-enter the Plan. It provides for the Plan to pay to these limited participants upon separation of employment a one-time lump sum amount representing their accrued values when less than $5,000. Each of the current limited participants has to date earned a monthly benefit from the Plan, payable upon retirement. Over 40% of these monthly benefit amounts are less than $100.00. From a plan administration standpoint, it certainly is not cost-effective to retain such members in the Plan through the course of their retirement years. This option reduces Plan administration costs while providing those limited participants who so elect the accrued value of their future monthly benefit in a lump sum payment.
4. Transfer of accrued values - Once again, this option is open to those limited participants who elect not to re-enter the Plan. It provides for individuals who so elect to transfer their accrued values from the Plan to a 401(a) qualified plan or IRA. As with the cash out option, this accomplishes the goal of reducing future Plan administration costs while providing another avenue for limited participants to receive the accrued value of the future monthly benefit.

Now that I have outlined the four (4) elements of my recommendation, I will address some of the specific concerns that I have heard regarding this proposal.
