Financial or Strategic?

As the storms gather on the horizon, do we lift anchor, set sail and leave the bay, or wait, clean the decks, mend the sails, and pull out the map one more time?

Dear Commissioners,

I'm on the organizing committee for Campus and Community Sustainability, an event to be held in Gainesville this year. The audience would be the administrative and operational personnel of all Florida colleges, community colleges, private and public universities, and the communities (City and County) they are in. The working title is something like: 'sharing best practices and visions for Florida's future'

Just about the entire UF campus will be dedicated to this event, our hotels & conference facilities are pre-booked, and Dr. Machen has said there is no upper limit to how many we would be able to host.

Who, in your world, do we disseminate this to? Is there a list-serve, or forum we can post it on? When we get it done, can I send it to you and ask you to spend 5 minutes forwarding it to the people who you think would benefit from being included?

Also, from the Host Committee, we may be asking you for logistical support; e.g., transportation (RTS), the Thomas center, guided tours of facilities, entertainment etc. I'm sure the proper requests will come in as they are determined.

Thanks in advance,
