

Legislation Details (With Text)

File #: 000212 Version: 2 Name: Preserving Single Family Neighborhoods (B)
Type: Discussion Item Status: Passed
File created: 8/28/2000 In control: City Manager
On agenda: Final action: 8/28/2000
Title: Ad Hoc Steering Committee on University Neighborhoods (B)
Sponsors:
Indexes:
Code sections:

Attachments: 1. 000212_Center for Livable Communities_20010101, 2. 000212_a The Ohio State University Faculty and Staff Homeownership Incentives Program_20010101, 3. 000212_b The Ohio State University Faculty and Staff Homeownership Incentives Program_20010101, 4. 000212_c The Ohio State University Faculty and Staff Homeownership Incentives Program_20010101, 5. 000212_Preserving single Family Neighborhoods_20010101

Date	Ver.	Action By	Action	Result
8/28/2000	2	City Commission	Approved, as shown above - See Motion(s)	Pass
8/14/2000	1	City Commission	Postponed
7/24/2000	0	City Commission	Referred	Pass

Ad Hoc Steering Committee on University Neighborhoods (B)

At the August 14, 2000 City Commission meeting, the Commission asked staff to look into available dates and a tentative schedule for an ad hoc committee to develop and implement a vision for further stabilization of the neighborhoods surrounding the University of Florida. Commissioners Chestnut, Nielsen and Hanrahan expressed interest in serving on the ad hoc committee.

Staff suggests the following schedule, based on available dates:

September 18, 2000 - Overview of issues and recap of programs and ordinances adopted by the City to date

October 16, 2000 - Review of programs adopted by other university communities (emphasizing partnerships between residents, the City and the university)

November 20, 2000 - Discussion of possible approaches in Gainesville

December 18, 2000 - Development of recommended programs

January 29, 2001 - Finalize report on recommendations

February 19, 2001 - Report to Commission and Commission action

None at this time. Any homeowner incentive programs and neighborhood improvement programs will require expenditure of City resources.

Hear a report from staff and take appropriate action.